TIME SCHEDULE
HOW TO USE THE UW TIME SCHEDULE

The Time Schedule can be used to determine what courses are being offered for the quarter, just like MyPlan Find Courses. However, the Time Schedule allows students to browse course offerings by department.

Accessing Time Schedule

Go to myuw.washington.edu from any web browser and enter your UW NetID and password. On the right column, select Registration from the Quick Links menu. This will open up a new registration page in a new window.

From the registration page, select Time Schedule from the Registration Resources menu.

To begin searching, select the college that the department is located within. For this tutorial, we will select Arts & Sciences, the largest college.

University of Washington Time Schedule

Autumn Quarter 2015

The UW Time Schedule lists credit classes offered at the University of Washington - Seattle. It is updated daily and is subject to change. (Last updated April 22, 2015.) You can get the up-to-the-minute status of any section by clicking on the five-digit Schedule Line Number. The University reserves the right to (1) add or delete courses from its offerings; (2) change times, days, or locations of courses; (3) change academic calendars; (4) cancel any courses for insufficient registration or academic/administrative decision without notice.

For further information on the Time Schedule and Registration process, visit the Registration Resource page.

Undergraduate Interdisciplinary Programs

- Arctic Studies (ARCTIC)
- Honors (HONORS)
- Program on the Environment (ENVIR) – See College of the Environment
- University Academy (ACADEM)
- Quantitative Science (Q SCI) – See College of the Environment

College of Architecture and Urban Planning -- see College of Built Environments

College of Arts and Sciences

- African Studies – See Jackson School of International Studies
- American Ethnic Studies

Your browser will automatically scroll down to the College of Arts and Sciences category. From there, we will select the specific department the class is listed under. For this tutorial, we will select Philosophy (PHIL).

Understanding the Time Schedule

Details about the course and course sections are listed underneath the course title.

Starting from the left, the information is as follows:

SCHEDULE LINE NUMBER
The five-digit number on the far left is the Schedule Line Number (SLN). This is the identification code for the specific class. You will need the SLN to register for the class. Selecting the SLN will redirect you to a course description of the class, where you can view information beyond the title.

SECTION ID
The letter (e.g. A, AA, AB) represents the Section ID. Single letters designate primary or lecture sections, and double letters designate quiz, lab or discussion sections.

You must register for a quiz section, if one exists. It must begin with the same letter designation as the lecture you are registering for (e.g. if you want to register for Lecture A, you must also register for a quiz section that begins with A, such as AA or AB.)

A new page will populate, showing all of the current philosophy courses, listed by course number (e.g. 101, 102, etc.) We will be registering for PHIL 100 Intro to Philosophy, which is listed as (I&S), meaning that it satisfies the Individuals and Societies requirement.

QUIZ SECTIONS
A section may have quiz, lab or discussion sections associated with it that correspond to that course section. Lecture “A” for example may be accompanied by quiz sections listed as AA, AB, AC. In a large lecture class, often smaller “quiz section” groups will meet several times a week. If quiz sections are listed under the lecture section you want to register for, you must register for a quiz section as well. Quiz sections are a required portion of many classes, but do not necessarily add additional credits to your schedule. You can add quiz sections to your plan just as easily as any other course.

NUMBER OF CREDITS
Next to the lecture, it will show the number of credits you will receive for the course. Most quiz sections provide no additional credit.

MEETING DAYS & TIMES
Next, the days and meeting times are listed, as well as the building name and room number. You cannot register for courses with conflicting meeting times. Selecting the building name will generate a campus map marked with the class location. The instructor for the course is listed to the right of the building name and room number.

ENROLLMENT
The current enrollment of the class is shown to the right of the instructor name. The number of filled seats in the class is shown over the number of total available seats. Please note that the seat availability is updated every 24 hours. To see up-to-date seat availability, select the SLN link, which will take you to the Current Section Status page. If a class is at full capacity, see the tutorial on Notify.UW (notify.uw.edu).

Certain classes will have a “W” designation to the far right. The “W” is the designation for “writing credit.”
The Current Section Status page lists the same information presented in the Time Schedule front page in a different format. The current enrollment number on this page is up-to-date by the minute. If a class is at full capacity, select the “Subscribe to seat availability notifications” to be taken to the Notify.UW page or see the tutorial on Notify.UW (notify.uw.edu).
